Matters arising from the Ordinary Meeting of Council held Thursday 27th August 2009

1. Adoption of the Corporate Plan.

Council engaged a firm of Consultants to prepare a Corporate Plan to ensure the future of Menzies into the long term future and indeed this plan was adopted by Council on August 27th. This is a particularly valuable and strategic direction for Menzies and provides the blue-print of what to do and what are the critically<sup>7</sup> important features for this community. Accordingly, I am much encouraged by the adoption of the significant directional tool which will drive the future thinking for the next five years.

2. Support to the Tjuntjuntjara Community.

This item was also an important discussion point in Chambers as Council was able to formulate a strategic philosophy as to what it was wanting to do for this unique community and how it was to provide the operational support to the community required. A significant paper was prepared by Justin Lee and presented to Council as how to determine that delivery and this concept was embraced by Council. The duties required for this conceptual aspect of Shire operations in allied to the duties of Mr Lee in the area of Community Development and thus this aspect will augment his current role. Accordingly this is a significant step forward for this community and I am confident great results will emerge as a result of this resolution. Council also contributed a $3,000 grant to support the community with lights and wind sock for the Air-field which is a vital link to the outside world especially in terms of the requirement of the Royal Flying Doctor Services.

3. New Employee – Depot Person.

Council also approved the position of a Depot Person to assist the Works Manager in the controls of stores and equipment, ordering of materials and sourcing of quotes e.t.c.. Accordingly, this is a great step forward for the Shire and the advertisement for this position will feature on the Kalgoorlie Miner and the West Australian newspaper on Wednesday September 2nd and where applications close on September 18th, 2009. Shire's Works Manager will be happy to receive enquires during this period to assist interested applicants with any questions they may have and indeed are encouraged to contact Mr Jerry Lenane for this purpose, if required.

4. Memorandum of understanding – “Golden Quest Discovery Trail.”

This very valuable “Trail” is a crucial component of the tourism aspect for this town and Shire and Council entered into a three year term of support of this facility with the agreement to support the “Memorandum of Understanding” which embraces the concepts and direction with financial support for the Trail group. Thus Council goes from strength to strength.

5. Royalties for Regions Funding.

This particularly important and indeed very welcomed provision of funding has enabled Shires to achieve success with projects that otherwise would not be able to be considered. Accordingly for Menzies the entitlement for the 2009/10 year exceeds $500,000 and Council endorsed the concept of this funding being administered through the “Goldfields Voluntary Regional Organization of Councils”, where it is member with a number of neighbouring Shires.

6. Support for Community Sporting bodies to Participate in Activities in neighbouring towns.

On a local basis, Council agreed to put aside $2,700 in this financial year in support funding for local Sporting groups to enable them to participate in attendance at neighbouring Shires. Accordingly this is likewise a great step forward in local assistance and should enhance the training and skill base for our local athletes by facilitating this assistance.

7. Local Government Reform Strategy.

This obligation is required to be submitted to the Minister by September 30th, 2009 and Council had engaged a firm of Consultants to prepare the submission to determine the direction for the future of Menzies. However, the submission was so extensive and delivered late so Council was not provided adequate time to deliberate over this vital report and deferred further consideration until the September meeting. Accordingly further details will issue to the Public shortly in this regard.

Thursday 27th August 2009

8. N.A.I.D.O.C. Week Celebrations.

Whilst it appears that the state historically celebrate this event in July, the Goldfields have arranged this annual event for celebration in October and where Council has embraced the concept and will develop a plan of what to do and how best to contribute to this celebration in 2009 and for future years.

9. Ranger Position.

It has become quite apparent that there is indeed a significant need at Niagara, Lake Ballard and Ularring soak. Accordingly, Council has decided to engage a concept of employment to provide services at these Tourist destinations to provide potable water, issuance of infringement notices and to pump out leach drains (e.t.c.) The council is open-minded with the concept of how to deliver these services and will consider all opportunities presented, including fulltime employment, part-time, casual, contract, or job-shared. Accordingly an advertisement calling for "Expressions of Interest" will feature in the West Australian Newspaper and Kalgoorlie Miner on Wednesday September 2nd and close on Friday September 18th, 2009.

10. Health Issues in Menzies.

This particularly important aspect of Community Health was raised and whole-heartedly supported by Council in the augmenting of Council garden beds with fresh vegetables and street verges to be planted with Fruit Trees for community members to access at will. Accordingly this is a huge step forward for community health and we are encouraged by Council's adoption of such an innovative concept.

11. Applications for Mining/Exploration Licenses. (Five.)

It remains most encouraging also to continue to see mining applications being received by Council and this month five applications received Council support for activities in this Shire. This is very encouraging and displays a great confidence in this region.

12. Support for the Annual "Friends Camp" – Yiwarra Palya.

Again a great decision in Council was the support for the Annual "Friends Camp" as arranged by the Yiwarra Palya Camps group at Morapoi and where Council will support financially the Shire of Menzies children in this endeavour to the extent of $80 per head to encourage participation. Accordingly, this is a wonderful opportunity for unity and good fun.

13. "Educating Rita" – Live Play for Menzies.

In terms of a cultural event, Council supported the bringing to Town the play "Education Rita" as performed by the theatrical troupe "Stage Left Theatre Troupe" from Boulder and this is likely to be held in September/October this year. Accordingly, further advice will issue once the timings have been confirmed and this is looking to be a great live performance.

14. Bootscooting – Dance Troupe for Menzies.

Also in terms of an interesting and lively activity being brought to town is the "Dancing Group" from Koorda, who have agreed to attend to teach local folk how to boot scoot and will perform on a Saturday evening to display what practice can do. Accordingly it is wonderful that council embraced this concept so willingly and further details will issue shortly once the date for attendance has been determined and agreed upon.

15. Governors Visit to Menzies.

On a very prestigious note, Council has been asked to host a morning tea and a luncheon for the Governor on September 24th, and where this is an exciting and proud time for Menzies and it is hoped we can have the Governor and his wife meet a number of our community on this occasion. Further advice will issue as details unfold.

Menzies Cemetery demonstrates associations with the earliest foundations and subsequent development of Menzies and the North Coolgardie Goldfields.

HISTORIC VALUE: Menzies Cemetery has the potential to yield information life on the goldfields of Western Australia, from 1895 to 1939. Menzies Cemetery is associated with the prospectors, miners, businessmen, government officials and their families who risked their health and their lives to follow the lure of gold and the call of duty. The high incidence of deaths due to suicide, accidents, typhoid or alcohol, the relatively low average age of adults interred, and the high infant mortality, bear testimony to the dangers and difficulties of goldfields life.

SCIENTIFIC VALUE: Menzies Cemetery has the potential to yield information relating to the population of the area and life on the goldfields of Western Australia, including life expectancy, family size, religious affiliation, ethnicity, morbidity, genealogical and other biographical information.

The cemetery contributes to the community's sense of place as a landmark and is a tangible reminder of the early history of the town and region.

DEGREE OF SIGNIFICANCE (RARITY): Menzies Cemetery is distinctive for the number of iron monuments which make use of locally available materials and skills in the absence of traditional funerary requirements.

REPRESENTATIVENESS: Menzies Cemetery represents a history of the Menzies district during the foundation of its beginnings, through the form, materials, lettering, style, alignment and presentation of the cemetery.

CONDITION: The elements that comprise Menzies Cemetery are generally in fair condition, and for the most part are maintained. However, a number of headstones and surrounds are damaged.

INTEGRITY: Menzies Cemetery has retained a high degree of integrity. Although it no longer accepts burials it remains clearly identifiable as a cemetery.

AUTHENTICITY: The original structure, form and fabric of Menzies Cemetery remain intact, with no changes to any original fabric, except the damage to headstones. Menzies Cemetery demonstrates a high degree of authenticity. The stone wall and metal gate entry has some heritage significance, and the gazebo is of some significance.

MEDIA RELEASE

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Friday 14 August 2009

Alarming Goldfields Skin Cancer Result

Referral rates from free skin cancer screenings conducted across the Goldfields region in July are alarmingly high.

The free screenings were provided at 14 communities by a team of professional volunteers from the Lions Cancer Institute (LCI) and staff from the 'RFDS on the road' Primary Health Care Program with support from BHP Billiton Nickel West.

Of the 1 590 people screened, 29.49% were referred with suspect areas of skin requiring further diagnosis or treatment.

This referral rate was nearly 5% higher than results from a similar circuit of screenings at 13 communities the LCI and 'RFDS on the road' team conducted in the Pilbara region in 2008.

Director of the Lions Cancer Institute and founder of the mobile screening unit, Colin Beauchamp, indicated the LCI would usually expect a 5 – 10% referral rate from a similar 'ad hoc' community screening in the south west of the State, so the Goldfields statistics were especially concerning.

The screening team estimate that 36.88% of the Goldfields people referred for follow up with their GP or specialist are likely to have potentially life threatening skin lesions.

RFDS Western Operations CEO, Tim Shackleton, said the partnership screening initiative delivered preventative and potentially life-saving health care to residents of regional WA.

"We're very pleased we've been able to work in partnership with the LCI and BHP Billiton for the third year in a row to provide regional people with an opportunity to have a free screening for skin cancer," he said.

This year the screening team also delivered some preventative skin cancer education sessions to children at the primary schools in the small rural communities of Salmon Gums and Grass Patch.

Tricia Slee, 'RFDS on the road' Program Manager said it was a great opportunity to provide the children with some 'hands on' education about skin cancer and promote the steps that should be taken to help prevent the disease.

"The children revelled at the chance to use the derma lights and view skin lesions on the derma-doc camera and software.

"The photographs of skin lesions displayed in the LCI van really helped to promote to the children the importance of taking precautions every day to protect their skin from the harmful effects of the sun," she said.

The RFDS suggests the number of people being referred with suspect skin lesions is a demonstration of the need for professional skin cancer screening services to be regularly available for people living and working in regional Western Australia.

The high referral rates from the Goldfields screenings also highlight the importance of targeted ongoing health education and promotion of skin cancer prevention.

Colin Beauchamp of the LCI notes that such high referral rates for suspect skin lesions indicate that regional people need to be more vigilant about sun protection and understand that sun damage in 'winter' months is also dangerous, and that individuals must take daily precautions to protect themselves from the damaging effects of exposure outdoors.

Background:

The skin cancer screening initiative came about as a result of feedback from an employee survey conducted at BHP Billiton Iron Ore (BHP BIO) Nelson Point site in 2006, noting lack of access to skin screening as a concern for many residents in the Port Hedland community. Our 'RFDS on the road' Program partner, BHP BIO approached the RFDS and asked if there was any way a skin screening service for residents of Pilbara towns could be brokered through the 'RFDS on the road' Program.

The Lions Cancer Institute (LCI) has delivered free skin cancer screenings to more than 26,000 people at community events in the south west of the State for near on 20 years. This remarkable service, delivered from a mobile unit, is provided free of charge by a team of health professionals including nurses, plastic surgeons and dermatologists and is supported by members of Lions International. The LCI screening team, led by the founder of the mobile skin screening unit, Colin Beauchamp, agreed to travel to the Pilbara region and conduct a pilot screening project in partnership with the 'RFDS on the road' Program at Port Hedland, Newman and Tom Price.

The pilot resulted in 1 040 people being screened, with in a 23% referral rate for suspect skin lesions. This was a much higher referral rate than the LCI would normally expect at an 'ad hoc' screening conducted in the south of the State, where average referrals are usually between 5-10%.

Based on this outcome, the LCI agreed to work in partnership with the 'RFDS on the road' Primary Health Care Program in 2008 and conduct a circuit of visits to 13 townships in the region over a 5 week period. 2 236 local residents were screened, returning a 24.9% referral rate for suspect skin lesions. This alarmingly high result reinforced the need for community skin cancer screening services, ongoing education about preventing skin cancer and promotion of regular skin checks.

About our Australian Flag

Australian National Flag

The Australian National Flag is Australia's foremost national symbol. The flag was first flown in 1901 and has become an expression of Australian identity and pride.

The flag is an important part of national occasions such as Australia Day, Anzac Day, and Australian National Flag Day.

About the Australian National Flag

The Australian National Flag has three elements on a blue background. The Union Jack in the upper left corner (or canton) acknowledges Australia's historical links with the United Kingdom.

Below the Union Jack is a white Commonwealth Star. It has seven points representing the unity of the six states and the territories of the Commonwealth of Australia. The seventh point was added in 1908 and is the only change to the flag since 1901.

The Southern Cross is shown on the fly (or right hand side) of the flag in white. This constellation of five stars can be seen only from the southern hemisphere and is a reminder of Australia's geography.

History of the Australian National Flag

In 1901 Prime Minister the Rt Hon Sir Edmund Barton MP, announced an international competition to design a flag for the Commonwealth of Australia.

Five near-identical entries were awarded equal first place from more than 30,000 designs. The designers shared the prize of £200.

The Australian National Flag flew for the first time on 3 September 1901 from the Royal Exhibition Building in Melbourne.

Australian National Flag Day

Australians celebrate the first time the Australian National Flag was flown by flying or displaying the flag on 3 September.

Other Australian flags

Australia recognises other official flags including the Australian Aboriginal Flag and the Torres Strait Islander Flag.

The ensigns of the Australian Defence Force include the Australian Defence Force ensign, the Australian white ensign and the Royal Australian Air Force ensign.

The Australian National Flag has three elements on a blue background. The Union Jack, the Commonwealth Star and the Southern Cross.

The Australian Red ensign is the official flag to be flown at sea by Australian registered merchant ships.

Proclamation

The Flags Act 1953 proclaimed the Australian National Flag.

Use of the Australian National Flag

The flag can be flown every day of the year. As the nation's foremost national symbol it should be treated with dignity and respect and there are protocols governing its use.

National Child Protection Week 2009

Dear Supporters of NAPCAN and National Child Protection Week 2009, welcome to the start of a dynamic campaign that will engage the whole of Australia in conversation about issues surrounding child abuse and neglect. Firstly, thank you to all those who have registered your interest with us and/or ordered promotional material to help with our two month campaign. Over 11,000 individuals have committed to helping in their local communities.

Over 100 government departments, both state and commonwealth, will be spreading the word amongst their staff and networks. The ACTU are supporting the campaign and many unions are going straight to their members. National Australia Bank and the Australian Industry Group are also providing us with brilliant support, as well as other businesses and industry groups. Your support has been overwhelming, so thank you.

Secondly, from yesterday (Monday September 7), our website for the survey went live at: www.preventingchildabuse.com.au

Right now, thousands of people across the country are completing the survey at this website. We request that you encourage all of your staff, clients, members, family and friends to follow this link to complete this survey.

Thirdly, and most importantly, connected to this site are the digital resources that we have been promising you over the last few weeks.

They can be found at: www.preventingchildabuse.com.au/resources

Along with the pdf's of the campaign's posters and fliers, you will find:

- + Explanatory text: both internal and external communications that you can cut and paste into an email and send through your networks
- + Email signature: this is a banner that you can place in your outlook signature to show your support
- + Banners: there are three banners of various sizes which can be downloaded and put at the top or bottom of your website, intranet or newsletter
- + Widget: this acts like a mini version of the website. It may sound tricky but this can easily be put on the front page of your intranet or website and used to share the survey with the whole of the internet

Follow the step-by step instructions on the site and you will find using these resources a simple and effective way to promote this campaign.

As always, if you have questions or queries please contact Mark Di Stefano at mark.distefano@napcan.org.au or call 02 9269 9200.

This is a great joint effort but our job is only just beginning.

Please continue to help us engage the whole of Australia in this most important campaign - to ensure the safety and wellbeing of all children.

MULGA SNAKE

(Pseudechis australis)

This impressive large snake is found over most of mainland Australia, but especially in arid and tropical areas. It is sometimes referred to as the 'king brown' snake. This name is misleading, as the mulga snake is closely related to, and its venom has similar characteristics to, four species of black snakes from eastern Australia. DANGEROUSLY VENOMOUS.

DESCRIPTION: The mulga snake is one of Australia's largest venomous snakes, reaching lengths of more than 2.5 metres, and is more robust than the taipan. The upper body and tail are a uniform blackish-brown, brown or coppery brown, with northern individuals being paler. Each scale on its back has a dark spot that declines in size on the flanks, so that the back appears to be darker. The belly is creamy white. When the mulga snake feels that it is in danger, it flattens its neck in an impressive threat display.

DISTRIBUTION: This species is found across most of WA, excluding the south coast and adjacent southern areas of the Wheatbelt, and the south-western corner from around Perth.

PREFERRED HABITAT: The mulga snake occupies most available habitats within its distribution. It appears to be particularly abundant in hummock grasslands and open tropical woodlands. It shelters in burrows dug by goannas and rabbits, or under logs or crevices in rock outcrops.

LIFE HISTORY: This species typically hunts by day during cool weather, but is nocturnal in northern areas and in hot weather. It feeds on lizards, small mammals, frogs, birds and their eggs. Males engage in combat during mating, and females lay four to 19 eggs.

CONSERVATION STATUS: This snake is widespread and common.

RELATED SPECIES: The Butler's or spotted mulga snake (Pseudechis butleri) grows to around 1.6 metres, and is bluish-black on its upper surface, with an irregular pattern of yellow dots. It is only found in the Goldfields and in adjoining regions of the northern Wheatbelt, from Ninghan east to Laverton. DANGEROUSLY VENOMOUS.

GUARDAR

(Pseudonaja nuchalis)

This large species, also sometimes known as the western brown snake, has extremely variable colouration. Colour forms include those with no bands through to boldly banded. The gwardar is often confused with the dugite (see pages 56-57). It has a vast distribution, covering most of WA and most of the eastern states except Victoria. DANGEROUSLY VENOMOUS.

DESCRIPTION: This moderately large, active species can reach up to 1.6 metres. It is incredibly variable in colouration, with experts suggesting anywhere between five and 16 distinct forms. There is a banded form with a dark brown to black head and up to seven indistinct zigzag brown bands on the body, over a paler yellowish-brown background. A hooded form has an orange brown upper surface, with black on the head and neck, and dark flecks on the body. Several forms with uniform patterns exist, with the back being grey or pale to dark brown and the head being either paler or darker than the back colour. Juveniles are similarly variable. All gwardars have distinctive off-white bellies with two rows of orange spots.

DISTRIBUTION: This snake occurs in most of WA, other than the south-western corner and the south coastal regions. It is most abundant in semi-arid areas such as the northern Wheatbelt, but is found throughout the central deserts and the Kimberley.

PREFERRED HABITAT: The gwardar occupies all habitats except black-soil plains in the Kimberley, where it is replaced by Ingram's brown snake. It shelters in burrows, under or in logs or under rocks, tin or rubbish.

LIFE HISTORY: While it usually hunts by day, in hot weather it may be active in the early evening. The gwardar feeds on lizards, small mammals, birds and other snakes. Mating is in spring in southern regions, but desert populations may breed opportunistically following good seasons. Females lay nine to 38 eggs.

CONSERVATION STATUS: Common.

RELATED SPECIES: The ringed brown snake (Pseudechis modesta), the smallest member of its genus reaching around 0.6 metres, occurs throughout most of WA and has a distinctive pattern of five to 12 widely-spaced narrow black bands on its upper surface. Ingram's brown snake (Pseudonaja ingrami) and the eastern brown snake (P. textilis) have eastern distributions and only just extend into WA in the east Kimberley. ALL DANGEROUSLY VENOMOUS.

Our Wildflower Colour in Flower Now

Genus Dodonaea (hopbush)

Hopbushes are shrubs which are often very sticky. There are usually male and female flowers in clusters on separate bushes. The male flowers have the anthers arranged in a circle, with very short filaments. They are usually red or orange. The female flowers have a small cup, with the style in the centre.

The fruit is a membranous angled capsule which may have 2-6 wings. There are 5 species in CA-NT, and these have differences in leaf and capsule. The fruits of hopbushes look like hops, but they are botanically not related. However, early settlers used them for brewing beer, and they did produce a satisfactory drink.

Dodonaea viscosa ssp. mucronata (Sticky hopbush)

Sticky hopbush is widespread in tropical regions and is very variable. Subspecies mucronata has a shiny green, spade-shaped leaf, about 2-6 x 1-2 cm, with wavy margins. The fruit capsule is similar to that of several other species; it has 3-4 wings, and the fruitlets are not inflated. The wings are 5 mm wide and the capsule is about 2 cm long.

The Dodonaea's red colour is the winged seed pod, the flower is small and insignificant.

Cassia artemisioides (Silver cassia)

Silver cassia is a silvery shrub 1-2 m high. The leaves have 3-10 pairs of narrow leaflets which look silvery because of a dense covering of flattened white hairs. The leaflets are 1-4 cm long, terete and furrowed. The glands are between the lowest 3 pairs of leaflets. The sweetly scented flowers are in a cluster, and they have rounded petals 7-10 x 5-7 mm in size. The flat, oblong pod is 4-8 cm x 6-10 mm.

The name artemisioides means like Artemis. The plant is named after the Greek goddess Artemis, whose statue was cast in silver.
