FROM THE ORDINARY MEETING OF COUNCIL HELD THURSDAY 27 SEPTEMBER 2012

AUDITOR: Council resolved to appoint Mr Gregory Wyllie as the Auditor to conduct the Audit for the Shire of Menzies for the financial year ended 30 June 2012. With the 2010/2011 Audit report only just being received, the examination of the Shire's accounts has been a somewhat convoluted process due to the number of queries that were received. It is hoped that with these two overdue reports being completed, future reports will be in a timely fashion.

BUSH FIRE CONTROL OFFICERS: Council has made the following appointments:

Chief Bush Fire Control Officer

Mr Brian Howson

Deputy Chief Bush Fire Control Officer

Mr Peter Crawford

Council encourages any residents who have a query in relation to the coming fire season to contact Brian Howson on 0448 242 040.

YARRI ROAD: Council has made a decision to replace two grids on the Yarri Road due to them being filled with sandy materials as well as being damaged. Motorists are advised to exercise caution when travelling on Yarri Road over the next couple of weeks. The work site will be well delineated during the replacement phase.

TJUNTJUNTJARA: Council has agreed to support an application from the Tjuntjuntjara Community to various bodies for funding to install a Rage Cage around the basket ball court at Tjuntjuntjara. This structure is a multi use facility and provides the means to enable a number of sporting activities to be conducted at the same venue.

TENDERS:

PLANT HIRE—Tenders have been approved to be called for the provision of plant hire for the next two years. This has been necessary due to the current contractors being unable to provide the machinery as and when the Shire requires the plant. The new structure will hopefully see that situation not arising again in the near future.

BRICK PAVING FOR THE MENZIES MAIN STREET—This tender will see the contract for brick paving being awarded to a contractor to further progress the upgrading of the main street.

LIQUID WASTE PONDS: Council has approved a variation to the contract to construct liquid waste ponds at the rubbish tip site. This infrastructure is necessary to enable contractors to dispose of waste liquid when pumping out septic tanks within the Shire.

STAFFING LEVELS: With the recent arrival of staff, the Shire is now at full operating capacity in regards to human resources. Latest arrivals are:

Peter Newton – Plant operator

Donna Grice – Depot Administration Assistant

Les Taylor – Town crew

A warm welcome to these new staff members and we hope they enjoy their time in Menzies

KALGOORLIE-BOULDER WELCOMES INDIGENOUS VISITORS' HOSTEL

12 SEPTEMBER 2012

Aboriginal people visiting Kalgoorlie-Boulder for family, health, business or cultural reasons will now have a designated accommodation facility for their short term stay.

The Kalgoorlie Indigenous Visitors' Hostel, which will provide short-term accommodation for Aboriginal people visiting Kalgoorlie-Boulder was officially opened today, with Housing Minister Terry Redman, accompanied by the Hon Wendy Duncan, handing over the keys to the operators, the Australian Red Cross.

The Kalgoorlie Indigenous Visitors' Hostel is the first of its kind in Western Australia and will house up to 41 visitors, lessening the hardship typically experienced by short-term visitors. It will also greatly assist with reducing the number of people sleeping rough and the associated risks that come with that.

"Of the $3.25million required for the Hostel, the Royalties for Regions program was the first funding body who committed to the project, contributing $1.25million towards the facility," said Ms Duncan.

Ms Duncan said that the facility had been discussed and over many years, and it is great to see that Royalties for Regions has enabled the vision to become a reality.

"The facility will ensure the wellbeing of visitors to Kalgoorlie-Boulder from outlying remote communities and towns especially those from the Spinifex lands of Coonana and Tjuntjuntjara," said Ms Duncan.

Feasibility studies are currently investigating the potential for additional indigenous short-term accommodation facilities to be built in other areas of the State.

Ms Duncan said that while the facility is welcome it will not provide a complete solution to the issue of itinerant people visiting Kalgoorlie-Boulder.

"Another essential part of the solution is accessible and affordable transport back home after visits to the city for family, health, business or cultural reasons. "

"What we need is a bus or two to help people return home rather than finding themselves stranded in the city with no transport."

GOLDFIELDS WOMEN'S HEALTH CARE CENTRE HAS REASON TO CELEBRATE

11 SEPTEMBER 2012

The Goldfields Women's Health Care Centre (GWHCC) celebrated a re-launch of their Kalgoorlie premises last week with an open day officiated by the Hon Wendy Duncan MLC.

Established in 1986, The Health Care Centre provides clinical services, health information and referral for women in the Kalgoorlie Goldfields region of Western Australia.

Having relocated the service in 1988 to its current address, various renovations and expansions have been necessary to continue service provision for women in the region, with the latest extensive transformations a welcome addition.

With Royalties for Regions contributing $91,000 towards the overall improvement project cost of $162,240, Ms Duncan said that the Centre now offered staff and clients a modern and comfortable building to support the expansion and sustainability of their services into the future.

"The service has been established by women for women and delivers a great service through partnerships with other health agencies. Congratulations to the volunteers who have made this service so strong, especially the life members who are still active, Jan Webster and Eva Stokes."

"My first visit was to see the ceiling collapsed on the floor, the uneven flooring and the sagging walls. It is fantastic that Royalties for Regions has helped deliver a beautiful, safe and welcoming place for women to receive counselling, support and treatment for a whole range of their unique issues."

Services offered include a Well Women's Clinic, Physiotherapy, and Counselling as well as education and information resources; with more information available about specific services on the GWHCC website.

Ms Duncan said that people could become involved in the GWHCC by attending a 'Care and Share' morning tea run by the Centre to meet new people and see what services are available, with the next one scheduled for Friday the 14th September between 10am and 12pm.

"The GWHCC is a wonderful service for the women of the Goldfields region, and is a credit to the team who have combined their skills and interests in addressing the importance of women's health issues. It is only $15 to become a member and I encourage woman in the Goldfields to join."

Climate, Weather and Aboriginal Culture

A culture in which all things past and present are interrelated

Introduction to Climate Culture—The Aboriginal View

The Aboriginal people have been living in Australia for at least 50,000 years and during this time have developed a unique method of living which has enabled survival to be maintained in sometimes incredibly adverse conditions.

A culture was developed in which all things past and present are interrelated, including the weather, landscape and previous generations, together with the plant and animal kingdoms. All these are connected as a continuum in which everything is placed in a proper order and has distinct meaning and relevance.

Climate and weather are vital parts of this continuum, and are largely controlled by supernatural forces which manifest themselves through the behaviour of the surrounding natural world.

Indigenous Seasonal Descriptions

Australia's climate is diverse. Monsoon tropics, desert, savanna, alpine and temperate regions can all be found in various locations. The sheer diversity of ecological zones negates the concept of a rigid European seasonal calendar for the entire continent. The Aboriginal people of Australia inhabited distinct regions that were usually concordant with geographical and ecological regions. An intimate knowledge of the environment was paramount for survival and the resulting meteorological view of the Aboriginal people is one of great diversity, where the nomenclature of the seasons is often dependant on localised events or resources.

The ability to link events in the natural world to a cycle that permitted the prediction of seasonal events was a key factor in their success. These natural barometers were not uniform across the land but instead used the reaction of plants and animals to gauge what was happening in the environment.

The presences of march flies, for example, was an indication to the Gadgerong people that crocodile eggs could be found, to look for native honey, and it was approaching the late dry season.

As a result of all this, seasonal cycles as described by the various Aboriginal peoples differ substantially according to location.

This produces a far more intricate and subtle overview of Australia's climate than the 4-season European climate description of Summer, Autumn, Winter and Spring, applied as it is across most areas of the continent

The Rainbow Serpent

A common theme in all Aboriginal mythology is the Rainbow Serpent. The Rainbow Serpent is seen as the inhabitant of permanent water holes and is in control of life's most precious resource, water.

It is the sometimes unpredictable Rainbow Serpent, who vies with the ever-reliable Sun, that replenishes the stores of water. Serpent stories vary according to environmental differences. Tribes of the monsoonal areas depict an epic interaction of the Sun, Serpent and wind in their Dreamtime stories, whereas tribes of the central desert experience less drastic seasonal shifts and their stories reflect this.

The close affinity between water and snakes may stem from the presence of most snakes in the vicinity of permanent water. The Waladjari people of the deserts of the Northern Territory see the spirit of water as the Carpet Snake. This is of scientific interest in that carpet snakes cannot survive long without water and are almost always found near water sources.

United Nations Day Wednesday 24 October 2012

United Nations Day was established to highlight the aims and achievements of the United Nations. The day marks the anniversary of the entry into force in 1945 of the United Nations Charter. The annual day has occurred since 1948.

United Nations Day has traditionally been marked throughout the world with meetings, discussions and exhibits about the achievements and goals of the organization. In 1971, the General Assembly recommended that member states observe it as a public holiday.

Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon stated in 2010: "UN Day is a day on which we resolve to do more. More to protect those caught up in armed conflict, to fight climate change and avert nuclear catastrophe; more to expand opportunities for women and girls, and to combat injustice and impunity; more to meet the Millennium Development Goals."

October is mid-spring in Australia, the flowers are in bloom, the weather is warm, and the sand and surf of Australia's beaches beckon. In the Australian Capital Territory, New South Wales and South Australia, the month begins with a public holiday, Labor Day, on the first Monday of the month, ensuring a long weekend early in October. In Western Australia, the Queen's Birthday holiday is on the first Monday of October 2012.

Flower and food festivals

Canberra's immensely popular month-long flower festival, Floriade, starts around mid-September and continues until around mid-October.

In Adelaide, South Australia, the Tasting Australia food and wine festival usually takes place for a week in mid-October.

Daylight saving time

From 2008, Australian daylight saving time, also known as Australian summer time, begins on the first Sunday in October and ends on the first Sunday in April in the Australian Capital Territory and the states of New South Wales, South Australia, Tasmania and Victoria. Western Australia observed daylight saving time on a three-year trial period until 2008 but has reverted to not observing daylight saving time.

The Northern Territory and Queensland do not observe daylight saving time.

What's October weather like?

Right in the middle of spring, October is a time of warming temperatures just before the heat of summer. At Australia's Top End, Darwin's October weather is certainly tropical up to a top daily average of 33°C (91°F). Alice Springs and Cairns would also hit above 30°C (86°F). In most of the other capital cities, average top temperature would hover around the 20°C (68°F) mark with Hobart at an average high of around 18°C (64°F) and Sydney 22°C (72°F). A combination of wind and warming weather can result in bushfires in the country's forests. Rain would generally be light in the capital cities throughout the continent.

Things to do

Warming spring weather is conducive to lazing away the days on Australia's beaches and beach resorts, taking road trips of varying periods, visiting Australia's vineyards and wineries, and taking part in sports and adventure activities.

For those interested in horse racing, October is the lead-up month to the running of the Melbourne Cup on the first Tuesday in November.

Emergency & Retrieval

All RFDS bases with aircraft in Australia provide emergency air transport services. These can be broadly categorised as primary response or secondary (inter-hospital) transport.

Primary Response

A primary response occurs when a person becomes seriously ill or injured and requires evacuation by air from a location without medical facilities to the nearest hospital infrastructure. For a primary response, the RFDS may fly to an isolated property, such as a station, mine site, road house or small community, to a remote health facility, or to an accident site itself. The RFDS provides this service 24 hours a day to over 80% of the Australian continent.

Inter-Hospital Transfers

Inter-hospital transfer involves the aeromedical transport of patients between hospital facilities. This usually occurs when patients with serious illness or injury require medical retrieval to a large regional or tertiary centre for definitive care.

Aircraft for Emergency and Transport Work

Beechcraft King Air and Pilatus PC 12 aircraft are used for emergency and transport work. All aircraft are medically configured to resemble mini intensive care units, and are fully outfitted with state-of-the-art medical equipment. They are capable of speeds of up to 500 kilometres per hour with a range of 1,500 kilometres. They are pressurised, enabling patients to be flown at the equivalent of sea level, which is essential for the treatment of serious injuries.

RFDS nationally conducts primary responses or inter-hospital transfers for over 36,000 patients per year to definitive hospital and/or specialist care. At all bases, aircraft are available to respond to calls 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Aircraft are staffed with a pilot, flight nurse and doctor (depending on the case).

The Mounted Section is part of the Specialist Enforcement & Operations Portfolio of the Western Australia Police.

With a current authorised strength of 22 officers, about 20 experienced patrol horses and young horses in training, today's Mounted Section offers a different style of policing to when it first began here in Perth, in 1834.

Our staff are drawn from serving WA Police and particular emphasis is placed on recruiting officers with frontline operational experience. Horse riding/handling skills are desirable but not essential.

The roles of our Mounted Police

Mounted Police is predominantly focussed on addressing anti-social behaviour in Northbridge and other entertainment precincts in Western Australia.

The officers and horses are highly visible and effective in preventing disturbances and providing support to frontline officers where needed.

We also perform the following roles:

- patrols in regional Western Australia
- suburban patrols
- bush searches for missing persons and evidence
- beach patrols at known trouble spots
- public marches and demonstrations
- School Leavers' events
- ceremonial duties such as the Anzac Day Parade and VIP escorts that now account for less than 0.5% of our time

Goldfields Shines at Perth Royal Show

The Goldfields region is currently being showcased at this year's Perth Royal Show at the Claremont Showgrounds, promoting the regions produce, minerals, industries, crafts and tourism.

The Goldfields has once again shined at the presentation awards night last Friday, taking out five awards, including First Place overall for the Northern region and the Perpetual Trophy.

Coordinated by Goldfields Tourism Network on behalf of the shires of Laverton, Leonora, Menzies, Wiluna, Ngaanyatjaraku, Coolgardie, Dundas and the City of Kalgoorlie-Boulder, the theme this year was Water – Lifeline of the Goldfields.

Goldfields Tourism Network Manager, Arianne Webb stated “this year it was wonderful to have, once again, the assistance of local designer Tina Bryce from Mallee Girl Design and Volunteers, Leanne & Nat James and their family, which attributed to the passion behind representing the Goldfields from the heart of Goldfields “station country.” We wanted to give the warmth of the region and I think this was evident from the response we have received whilst also representing the diversity of our large Goldfields region.”

Coolgardie red soil was transported to Perth from the Goldfields along with some fabulous Indigenous artworks from the shires of Wiluna, Warburton and Laverton.

The awesome Water Feature, built with the assistance of the James family and based on the Pipeline, has created some interest with the public and is the centre piece of the display.

“We would also like to thanks all the people who donated products and equipment and time towards this year's Display, as it is a fabulous opportunity to showcase the Goldfields to the West Australian public.”

The show concludes this Saturday night with usually 400,000 people passing through its gates and 110,000 people through the Centennial Pavilion, where the regional displays are housed.

Wetter than normal conditions favoured in western WA

The WA outlook for mid-spring to early summer (October to December) indicates that a wetter than normal season is likely for western WA.

This outlook is mainly a result of warmer than normal waters in the Indian Ocean.

The chances of receiving above median rainfall during October to December are 60% to 70% over most of western WA.

Such odds mean that for every ten years with similar ocean patterns to those currently observed, about six to seven years would be expected to be wetter than average over those areas, while about three to four years would be expected to be drier. However, it should be noted that rainfall is commonly low over the west Pilbara and west Gascoyne at this time of year and contributes only a small fraction to their annual total.

Over the remainder of the State, the chances of a drier or wetter October to December period are roughly equal.

An expanded set of seasonal rainfall outlook maps and tables, including the probabilities of seasonal rainfall exceeding given totals (e.g. chance of receiving at least 200 mm), is available on the "Water and the Land" (WATL) part of the Bureau of Meteorology website.

Outlook confidence is related to how consistently the Pacific and Indian Oceans affect Australian rainfall. During October to December, history shows the effect to be moderately consistent over much of WA, apart from in south western parts and in the eastern Interior where the effect is only very weakly consistent. Users should exercise caution when using this outlook in areas of low skill.

Oceanic indicators remain close to El Niño thresholds. However, atmospheric indicators, such as the Southern Oscillation Index (SOI) and trade wind strength, remain near-normal. Climate models surveyed by the Bureau of Meteorology suggest sea surface temperatures in the tropical Pacific Ocean will maintain values around typical El Niño thresholds before easing towards more normal values by the end of 2012 or early 2013. Observations also suggest that current Indian Ocean temperature patterns are typical of those historically associated with decreased spring rainfall over parts of southern, central and northern Australia. Climatologists will continue to monitor conditions and outlooks closely for any further developments over the coming months, with information on the likelihood of El Niño available fortnightly at the ENSO Wrap-Up.

DE GRUSSA WELCOMES ELECTRICITY BILL HELP FOR ELIGIBLE HOUSEHOLDS

20 September 2012

The Nationals WA candidate for Eyre, Colin de Grussa says household financial relief is on hand with the State Government's Cost of Living Assistance (CoLA) payment to be rolled out from October 1, 2012.

"This new initiative will see eligible households receive assistance deposited directly to their electricity account," Mr de Grussa said.

"The CoLA payment will replace the Supply Charge Rebate (SCR) and see the base yearly rate to eligible recipients increase by more than 35 per cent from $147 to $200 per year."

To receive the rebate eligible Western Australians must have their concession details registered with their electricity provider which for households in the Eyre electorate is Horizon Power.

Households which hold the following concession cards will be eligible for the CoLA payment:

- WA Seniors Card
- Department of Veterans Affairs Gold Card;
- Pensioner Concession Card;
- Health Care Card; or
- Commonwealth Seniors Health Card.

Households that have one or more of the above concessions and have more one or more dependent children will also be entitled to the Dependent Child Rebate (DCR).

"By way of an example, an eligible family with two dependent children will now receive the new CoLA payment of $200 per year and then receive the DCR payment (for two children of $307 – a total annual rebate of $507," Mr de Grussa said.

"This means that for an eligible family with two children they will now receive a yearly rebate equalling about one third of the average households spending on electricity per annum."

Eligible households who have not registered their details with Horizon Power can do so by calling 1800 267 926 or visiting www.horizonpower.com.au.

Existing recipients of the SCR will automatically be transferred to the CoLA payment from October 1 2012.

Kids Free at Kalgoorlie-Boulder Fair

The 2013 Kalgoorlie-Boulder Community Fair will be even better value for families, with children set to enjoy free entry.

Member for Mining and Pastoral Region, Wendy Duncan said children 12 years and under, who were accompanied by an adult would be eligible to attend the Fair free of charge.

"The Kalgoorlie-Boulder Community Fair has traditionally been the major social event of the year planned particularly for Goldfields' kids, so it's wonderful to see families helped to make it more affordable," Ms Duncan said.

"I have very fond memories of the Kalgoorlie-Boulder Community Fair not only as a young child riding in the equestrian events, but also as an active member of the Pastoralists and Graziers Association in my adult life, when we would annually put on a display in the wool pavilion highlighting the local pastoral industry and the value of wool."

The free entry initiative is part of a $2 million State Government commitment to make the Perth Royal Show and regional shows more widely available to families. The initiative coincides with the Australian Year of the Farmer, of which the focus is to help build city-country relations.

"The Kalgoorlie-Boulder Community Fair has always provided an opportunity for Goldfields community groups to showcase their talents and skills, and brought the wider community to Goldfields kids," said Ms Duncan.

"By offering free entry for children it is hoped that more families will be able to make the trip to Kalgoorlie-Boulder from other Goldfields communities and enjoy the fun."

NEWS from GEDC

An Active, Vibrant time ahead for our Region!

There is a lot of background activity happening in the region at the moment, which will lead to expanded health programs for all, more social activities for whole of community across the Northern Goldfields and happy, safer families and children.

Firstly, the wonderful Mark Bin Bakar and Mary G are coming to visit with the 'Mary G No Grog No Drugs' tour of the Goldfields. The tour of our region will be starting off in Laverton on Thursday 25th October 2012. On Friday 26th October Mark will run a Men's Business Workshop in the morning, followed by Women's Yarning, with Mary G in the afternoon, to be held in the Laverton Town Hall. The Laverton visit will finish off with a free 'whole of Community' Concert and a free Community Barbeque at the Sports Oval, starting at 6pm on Saturday 27th October.

On Monday 29th October Mark and Mary G will be visiting Leonora. Mark will run Men's Business Workshops in the morning, followed by Women's Yarning in the afternoon with Mary G in the Leonora Rec Centre. On Tuesday 30th October, Mary G will hold a free 'whole of Community' Concert and free Community Barbeque at the Leonora Sports Oval, starting at 6pm.

I am so looking forward to the Concert – Mary G is one of my favourite artists!

Other good news is that the Department of Health has provided funding to enable a not for profit organisation called DrugARM (WA) Inc. to employ a 'Breaking the Cycle' Project Officer in Leonora. This Project Officer will work with communities in the Shires of Leonora and Laverton to introduce alcohol and drug prevention strategies.

I know many people in our communities have been crying out for help to deal with these issues, wanting assistance to 'break out of the cycle' themselves or on behalf of family or loved ones. Having this position based locally is a wonderful step forward in meeting our community needs. More information on this role will be available in the next News Edition, including contact details.
